

4) Recognize professional responsibilities and make informed judgments in computing practice based on legal and ethical principles.

Criteria	Level of Learning
	Initial	Emerging	Developed	Excellence
Recognize ethical dilemmas, interested parties and their consequences.	Does not recognize an ethical problem on a specific personal or social scenario	Recognizes an ethical problem, deals adequately with it but incompletely without being able to identify the interested parties nor the consequences	Recognizes an ethical problem, its direct and indirect interested parties and its consequences	Recognize an ethical problem, its direct and indirect interested parties and its consequences. Furthermore, identifies who should take a position or a decision among the interested parties.
Demonstrate honesty and integrity in terms of ethical and deontological principles, in accordance with the provisions of the Company and Institution	Does not demonstrate ethical nor deontological principles, in accordance with the provisions of the company nor institution	Partially demonstrate ethical and deontological principles in accordance to the company and Institution bylaws.	Demonstrate ethical and deontological principles in accordance to the company and Institution bylaws.	Always demonstrate ethical and deontological principles in accordance to the company and institution bylaws. Furthermore, promotes them in different contexts